ATP Program:

Several workshops are schedule over the next few weeks to refine the Guidelines for the upcoming Cycle 4 of the Active Transportation Program (ATP) Call-for-Projects which is scheduled for March 2018. Details regarding these upcoming events can be found on the California Transportation Commission Website: <http://www.catc.ca.gov/>

Changes in the proposed draft Guidelines include:

- Caltrans will, for the first time, be applying for ATP funds. They expect to be submitting five (5) to six (6) applications during Cycle 4.
- The program will now have 5 different project applications based upon project size:
 - o Large Project--greater than $5 million
 - o Medium Project--costs between $1.5 million to $5 million
 - o Small Project--less than $1.5 million.
 - o Small Project--Non-infrastructure Only
 - o Small Project--Plan
- Cycle 4 will cover four (4) programming years: FY 2019/20, 20/21, 21/22, and 22/23 -- $96 million a year for the first two years and $123 million a year for the second two years.
